One Body . . .

2,000 students within these walls, 2,000 individuals different from each other in 2,000 ways, But each of them is a part of one body called Roosevelt.

This body is burgundy
and blue and white.
It walks in red socks
and patterned hose, likes V-neck sweaters
and button-down shirts.

This body has a spirit
that fills a classroom,
an assembly, a gym,
and has different names.
It's pensive and thunderous,
and is called Roosevelt.

One Talent . . .

A jar of paint and a brush become an artist's typewriter.
Color becomes a thought,
a stroke an emotion,
and the final pattern a story.
A hollow piece of brass becomes a musician's paintbrush.
A toot is a thought,
each tempo, emotion,
and the last few bars a finale.
Words on a page
become an actor's score.
Each movement a thought,
an inflection, emotion,
and the final bow a climax.

-One Hope . . .

What will I be? Where will I go?
What will I do? If only this test tube doesn't blow up. I'd have hopes then, of becoming famous, of going far away, of doing great things. A test tube's a start . . . Scrawled notes and observations, perplexity and realization, are all a part of hope.

A Time of Joy . . .

The bouncing babble
and shuffle bustle
of students transformed into flappers
is a carefree face
of celebration—
the enjoyment of a spree
of a moment's madness.
Fancy booths
and ragged ragtime, bubbly coke
and amiable bartenders catch the mood
for a frenzy of fun,
a snatch of laughter
just for joy.

A Time of Stress . . .

Strange symbols of simmering potions,
an open book
in a study hall,
and scribbled notes
on a withered page tell the story of a process of learning.
It worries and teases,
encourages and dismays;
the stretch of thought that probes just a bit deeper, searching for that glimmering gram of understanding that means "knowledge."

This Is Roosevelt . . .

The shuffling has died away;
lockers have stopped their slamming and sudden tranquility comes with the closing classroom doors.
The wide halls are strangely hushed. A distant tap-tap of someone's heel, the plop of a book carelessly dropped accents this air of suspended motion.

One moment my heart was stiff,
my mind dwelled quietly within itself
as I walked alone in the crowd.
Then I became a fraction of that heartbeat,
a wisp of that giant breath,
and my tiny voice blended into the fury of hope.

The Shuffling Has Died Away . . .

That one living spirit
tugged and pushed upward with its strength
to the crest of victory.
But the agony of defeat
would have been my agony too;
and the pride then,
a victory in itself.

Dynamic life, never ending . . .

The pulse of a school beats
in its halls after hours,
the silence an inspiration to thoughtfulness, happiness, and desire to fill the void with your own voice of success.

Girls Club's Spinster's Spree

Modern science hall after school

Mr. Guy Michener's sixth period biology class

The pulse beats out again in unison like
a pounding drum,
a hectic rhythm to urge
a team to greater heights, and rises with it to a dizzy peak of victory.

Academics

Which is the means and which the end? In the chaos of classes, books, and exams, perspectives become foggy.

It becomes easy to forget the purpose of education while struggling to get through the homework for tomorrow's class, read assignments, write a paper.

Every student must make the distinction between road and destinations . . . cramming for tomorrow's test or learning for living.

Delmer Battrick

Seated next to Student Council President Art Wittmack, Mr. Battrick gazes over the eleventh and last student body he has administered to as principal of Roosevelt High School.

As Roosevelt's principal from 1954 to 1965, Mr. Battrick has demonstrated professional leadership and integrity. He has won a place for himself and his ideals in the community, and has always and first maintained for the students of his school the goal of better education.

Despite his very busy work day, Mr. Battrick maintains an open door policy with both faculty and students, and has never been too busy to offer suggestions or a sympathetic understanding or resourceful assistance in times of difficulty.

Roosevelt has maintained a superior academic program, and has a well-rounded program in extra-curricular activities, marked by frequent city and state athletic championships in all events, including the 1965 Boys State Basketball Championship. Dramatics, music, journalism, and other extra-curricular activities have been outstanding. Mr. Battrick has enthusiastically led and endorsed student government, and Roosevelt student council members are also leaders in the All-City Student Council, initiated by Roosevelt.

In recognition of his outstanding activities, Mr. Battrick was chosen as one of the five outstanding Secondary Principals of the Year in the nation in 1964.

Charles Rowley

Both Dr. Charles Rowley and his job are new to Roosevelt this year. As assistant principal, he aids Mr. Battrick in his work, and Dr. Rowley's door is always open to faculty and students. He also visits classrooms in order to offer suggestions for better teaching.

Don Blackman

New to Roosevelt this year, Don Blackman has gained many friends among both faculty and students. He aids boys in solving personal and disciplinary problems, as well as sponsoring the activities of the Boys' Club. Mr. Blackman is a familiar sight at all Roosevelt events, and Roosevelt is glad to add him to its family.

Velma Cross

The job of girls' advisor is a hard one to fill, especially in a large school, yet Roosevelt girls agree that Mrs. Cross has done a fine job in her two years at Roosevelt. In addition to helping girls with their varied problems, Mrs. Cross arranges the schedule for visits of college representatives and furnishes scholarship information. The many activities of the Girls' Club are under her sponsorship.

Adults Direct

Board of Education

Arthur Davis; Richard Lozier; John R. Haydon; Herrold Mann, secretary; Mrs. Rolland Grefe, president; Dr. Paul Mitchum, acting superintendent; Ora Niffenegger; Mrs. Jack Spevak; Dr. Floyd Burgeson.

Mrs. Sweet has the great responsibility of caring for the health of Roosevelt's student body. Besides caring for minor emergencies, she is responsible for having students weighed and measured, having their eyes examined, and checking them in and out of school for doctor and dentist appointments. Mrs. Sweet, who is sponsor of the Future Nurses' Club and who has been instrumental in holding sex education forums after school, is helped by student assistants in her office during their study halls.

Clear expression of thought in writing and speaking is necessary for success in modern society. English classes develop this ability through the study of grammar, composition, American literature, and English literature. Students are given a chance to express their views in themes and class discussions. Journalism, speech, and drama classes concentrate on more specific skills in the field of English.

All Roosevelt students take two years of English while the college-bound usually elect to continue their background with senior English.

The program is tracked, allowing teachers to adjust their curricula to the ability of their classes.

Each year, more and more high school students are given the opportunity to travel and study abroad. Students Discover the Wide World Science at Roosevelt plays an important part in informing the student of the world around him and in adequately preparing him for the more difficult science courses in college. Almost all students take biology as sophomores, and a large percentage also go on to enroll in chemistry and physics. Roosevelt has some of the finest science laboratory facilities in the state, and through these labs students develop the habit of formal problem solution.

Man's natural curiosity about the world around him led to the development of the different branches of science. At Roosevelt, students may take biology, physics, chemistry, and practical chemistry. Teachers encourage their students to demonstrate their knowledge and research in the annual Hawkeye Science Fair, in which several Roosevelt students are perennially entered.

Social Science Lends Knowledge of Mankind

The understanding of the modern world is of prime importance in every person's life. To provide a basis for this comprehension, every student at Roosevelt takes three years of social science. As a background for understanding contemporary affairs, sophomores take world history. Juniors concentrate on American history. The science of economics and the study of American problems—international, national, and local—are explored in the senior year. So that the students will be familiar with recent discoveries and schools of thought, most teachers use many supplementary materials. In this way, Roosevelt students will become better prepared to meet their responsibilities as citizens of our democratic society.

They Learn

Hubert Bierbaum
Business Education

Each year, several Roosevelt students participate in distributive education, attending school in the morning and working in the afternoon. In this way, they gain valuable information on retailing and wholesaling. The Industrial Arts Fair at Cedar Falls is entered each year by many boys working in the industrial arts department. A number of boys make detailed plans and complete several projects, ranging from tables to houseboats.

"Keep your eyes on the material to be typed; don't look into space!"

Driver Ed Students Learn Safety

"First put the key in the ignition. Turn it. Now, place one foot on the brake and shift the car into reverse. That's the 'R'. Right. Take your foot off the brake. Now, look into the rear window and slowly, s-l-o-w-l-y back out. When the car is in the street, put one foot back on the brake and shift to drive. That's the 'D'. Fine. Apply a slow, steady pressure to the accelerator, taking the foot off the brake. Clear? Okay, then let's go out to the car and give it a try."

Scholars Receive Recognition

In the spring of their junior year, more than 800,000 students across the nation take the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test. Of these, 14,000 are selected as Finalists. This year, ten Roosevelt students received this honor.

Seniors

Every year brings a bounty of its own: a gift of time distinct from all other times; events not to be recaptured, and infinitely valuable.

Year after year, through the same halls, students pass for the last time. They are seniors walking a little apart from the other students.

At a threshold yearly crossed by many others stands the class of 1965. And the experience is strangely unique and precious—because it is theirs.

The many senior activities were guided and co-ordinated by the class officers: Carol Williams, secretary; Jim Nelson, vice-president; Tom Kreamer, president; and Graham Cook and Marge Dalbey, treasurers.

RHS Graduates Its Largest Class

The 1965 graduating class again brought to Roosevelt the quality to which it is accustomed. The nearly 700 seniors excelled in every area of endeavor, including athletics, academics, and extracurricular activities. Also, through high standards of conduct and citizenship, they helped strengthen the Roosevelt image and goal: "We are here to help." Each member of the class acted as a public relations manager, and the result was high public respect for Roosevelt. The year was not without its light moments, either. This year's senior activities, planned by the senior board, were some of the best ever.

Seniors Excel in Studies

The senior year of high school is always one of work and worry. Each student must decide how much of his time to devote to his studies and how much to give to the many other activities which surround him. Many decisions concerning the future, coupled with the various senior activities, have a tendency to deemphasize studies. This year's class, however, made its decisions wisely, and was able to keep up its high scholastic standing throughout its senior year. This feat was extremely important to the school as a whole, since Roosevelt has always tried to keep as its major goals the furtherance of knowledge in its students and the preparation of useful individuals for life in society.

Service Is Important

Some of the major accomplishments of this year's class were its diligent efforts in the area of community service. Led by the seniors, the whole school participated in various community projects including the United Campaign, Red Cross, and bundle drives. More specialized groups such as the Boys' and Girls' Clubs, the Kiwanis Key Club, and the student council sponsored other projects. The picture at left shows student council members at Camp Sunnyside during Thanksgiving vacation. With projects ranging from an Easter egg hunt for Slinker School children to sandbagging at "The Flood," Roosevelt students convincingly displayed their interest in Des Moines and their willingness to serve.

TRHS Teams Triumph

Athletics play an important role in senior activities. A senior realizes that this is the last year in which to involve himself in Roosevelt athletic events. And almost every game represents some sort of "last." The last football game, the last home game, the last tournament game—are meaningful. Few seniors will forget this year's homecoming victory over a highly-rated East team or Roosevelt's state basketball championship. The tournament was a time of astonishing excitement and spirit. All other sports contained special moments which will long be remembered by those involved.

Rough-and-ready Teddy Roosevelt, portrayed by Peggy Henneberry, finds spirit-raising strenuous, and pauses briefly for refreshment.

Seniors Enjoy Last Year

During their last year at Roosevelt, seniors participate in many activities organized and carried out specifically for them. These activities include the senior frolics, picnic, breakfast, and banquet, Baccalaureate, Class Day, the Prom, and, of course, Commencement. All these activities make the senior year at Roosevelt something "special"—a time to be remembered with mixed emotions. Joy—because of something successfully completed; sadness—because of events and friendships never to be regained. Despite all the pressures of high school, a senior sees his years at Roosevelt with a tingle of emotion—and takes leave with exuberance, yet with regret.

Traditions Guide School

Roosevelt is a school filled with and guided by tradition. Although it is invariably a leader in utilizing modern ideas and practices, its past has a definite effect on school life. For example, the Big Stick is a tradition which symbolizes the creed of Theodore Roosevelt, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." Thus, when the Big Stick is handed to the president of every class, it carries with it some of the spirit which pervades the school and its actions. Other traditions, such as high standards of leadership and scholarship, are sometimes less obvious, but they also play an important role in Roosevelt. These traditions help make Roosevelt the school that it is.

All Seniors Find Fun

Life at Roosevelt is far from being all work, and nearly everyone finds opportunities for fun and excitement—sometimes in the classroom, more often in connection with extracurricular affairs. There is an emphasis on learning, grades, and class standing; yet seniors find time for enjoyment in many varied forms.

A boisterous group, a practical joke, or a warm friendship provide relief from the pressure and strain of classroom work during the school day.

Outside the regular 8:15 to 3:00 routine seniors occasionally ignored homework to attend games, music and drama productions, open houses, dances, and other social events. Many received special joy and satisfaction by active participation, and thrilled to the warm, loud approval of their fellow students.

"Yea sophs!" cries an exuberant group of fans at one of the sophomore football games.

Many hours of a student's life are spent on extra-curricular activities but schoolwork must come first.

Sophs Learn TRHS Spirit and Tradition

Suddenly a class of more than 700 sophomores is swept into the smooth running machine called Roosevelt. They learn of traditions and of spirit, as well as the difficulty of schoolwork in high school. The seniors are looking for a college to attend, the juniors are looking forward to the time when they will lead the school, but just as a school needs its leaders, so does it need its followers. The followers and workers come from the sophomore class as they start at the bottom to work their way up to leadership in their new school.

New subjects, new freedoms, new clothes, and new BOYS make good topics for discussion at the sophomore mixer.

Juniors Prepare for Leadership

Assembly chairman Ron Cohen looks with pride at the Boys State Basketball Tournament trophy.

The junior year is spent serving on committees, worrying about new innovations to be put into practice next year, and claiming that the junior class is superior to the senior class. As sophomores, everything is new and committee sign-up deadlines slip by. When the junior year begins, these second-year students are the first in line to do everything under the guidance of the senior chairmen. They serve and learn for they will be the chairmen when the schoolyear opens the next time.

Key Club car rally tickets get a big sales boost from this persuasive salesman, Steve Lyons.

Energetic juniors somehow find time for activities other than study.

Student Life

As academics may be symbolized by texts, extra-curricular activities are like supplementary readings which enrich the course.

Every page of student activities tells a story of enrichment. Through clubs, music, elections, plays, and other interests, students communicate, learn to follow . . . to lead. Self-expression is displayed and immense value discovered.

Each page displays another facet of the active students who found the importance of supplementary reading.

Deadlines—picture, copy, and ad deadlines—all must be met to produce a good annual. Under the leadership of Editor Marcia Hudson, the entire ROUNDUP staff worked long and diligently toward this goal. Donald Haley served as faculty sponsor.

Decisions, decisions troubled Rich Safris of the fall Roundup staff, and the problems were discussed by Angie King, Cheryl Arvidson, and Linda Cunningham.

Page one editor Jan Miller and her staff appear to be accomplishing nothing as they pose for the photographer, while Annie Beecher studies a blank sheet of paper.

Fall Roundup Staff Is 'First-Class'

The FALL ROUNDUP STAFF met minor crisis after minor crisis in facing deadlines and putting out eight issues of the bi-weekly paper. Editor Avi Soifer, Managing Editor Cheryl Arvidson, and Business Manager Sheryl Pidgeon headed the 21-member staff, whose paper earned a first-class rating from the National Scholastic Press Association. The sale of advertising reached a new high, and the additional ads enabled the staff to enlarge the ROUNDUP's usual six-page layout twice. Subscriptions were extended to over 150 members of the 1964 graduating class, and home-room sales were tripled.

One phase of the editorial policy was to report and discuss issues "outside the immediate realm of Roosevelt High School" and editorials were printed concerning a wide variety of issues such as civil rights, religion in the schools, highway safety, and the necessity of a well-informed electorate. Many editorials were reprinted in high school newspapers throughout the state.

Highlights of the year included interviews with entertainers, college admissions officers, and national political figures. Reader interest was increased by a letter-writing campaign advocating more sports coverage.

The ROUNDUP was sponsored by Donald Haley.

Because of the large enrollment in Journalism 2 during the second semester, two classes shared the writing, editing, and business responsibilities involved in publishing a newspaper. Each staff produced four consecutive issues of the ROUNDUP while the other class worked, offered moral support, and provided occasional constructive criticism.

Heading the first staff were John Gordon, Editor; Candy Carpenter, Managing Editor; and Bill Cobb, Business Manager. The staff's work was highlighted by a special state championship issue.

Co-editors Ann Huenemann and John Evans led the second staff, assisted by Managing Editor Ann Williams and Business Manager Melinda Kaser.

Fall Council Leads in Service

Presided over by Art Wittmack, the FALL STUDENT COUNCIL did many things. Among its accomplishments were a student council week featuring a mock student council, a Camp Sunnyside workday, homecoming, and council exchanges with other schools. The council, composed of 61 homeroom representatives and 19 committee chairmen, also participated in the United Campaign and Bundle Drive. Recipient of the Best Representative Award was Cheryl Arvidson, and Kris Sharpe won the newly-inaugurated Best Committee Chairman Award.

Chief Justice Terry Bowes headed the FALL STUDENT COURT, which sought clean halls and grounds, maintained an orderly cafeteria and student center, and promoted general respect for fellow students and property. Other members of the court were Jan Baer, secretary; Vicki Jacobson and Reed Prior, sophomores; Cindy Luthey and Ron Cohen, juniors; and Jim Baugus and Jim Nelson, seniors. Sergeants-at-arms were Ed Allen and Tom Stephens.

Much of the Fall Council's success can be at-tributed to the 16 committees, consisting of from 20 to 60 students each.

Various examples show the committees' effec-tiveness. Profits made at post-game open houses provided needed equipment for the student center. The safety committee helped form a state-wide safety club. The international student com-mittee raised money to finance foreign exchange students next year. Industrious artists painted and posted banners in the halls before all games to boost enthusiasm.

To recognize the achievements of Roosevelt graduates, the hall of fame committee was formed; and to work closely with the All-City Student Council, the interschool relations com-mittee was created.

Cafeteria monitors kept order during lunch periods, issued court slips to offenders of school rules, and enforced the penalties of the student court.

Spring Council Adopts Innovations

SPRING STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS. Bob Updegraff, second vice-president; Dee Erbe, secretary; John Strief, president; Bart Goldman, first vice-president; Leif Glomset, chief justice.

Social Night, an all-school clean-up campaign, and several new committees were some of the activities of the SPRING STUDENT COUNCIL, headed by John Strief. To plan and evaluate council projects was the purpose of one new committee, and others were set up to promote public relations and school spirit. A scrapbook of all Roosevelt activities was kept by the Historical Committee. All students who desired to participate in the student council were given the opportunity to do so.

Chief Justice Leif Glomset headed the SPRING STUDENT COURT, which successfully curbed many problems concerning student driving. Writing themes as punishment was virtually abolished this year, with constructive assignments replacing them. Leif was assisted by Jennifer Jones, court secretary; Anne Boydston and Arnie Engman, sophomores; Patsy Messer and Chuck Strief, juniors; and Joy Potthoff and Bill Lozier, seniors. Sergeants-at-arms were Jim Muell, Rick McMaster and Dick Grangaard.

The spring session of Student Council featured an Easter Egg hunt for Slinker School, purchase of the victory bell, and the formation of new committees in the area of public relations. Much of the success of these and other projects was due to the work of the committee chairmen and many ideas were formulated in the student council board meetings.

The number of students who signed up for committee places was so large that some had to be turned down, and the highly-qualified committees boasted many accomplishments. A few were the election committee's revised election procedures, the poster-booster committee's home-room poster contests, and the international student committee's fulfillment of its $1,350 goal. Social committee sponsored Social Night, the human rights committee produced an assembly, and safety committee improved parking lot conditions.

Beginning with a pep assembly at which Odin was introduced to Roosevelt and a queen was crowned, Homecoming 1964 was a huge success. The Homecoming game was held on a Saturday afternoon for the first time in many years—and it was a beautiful, colorful day on which almost everything went right for Roosevelt.

Girls Ask Boys to Roaring Ragtime

A veritable pillar of strength!

A gay carnival mood prevailed as Girls' Club sponsored its annual turn-about "Spinsters' Spree." This year's theme was "Roaring Ragtime." Couples entered Charleston contests, had their pictures taken, drank soft drinks served in a redecorated Roosevelt "speak-easy," and visited booths run by "flappers."

The scales of justice were slightly unbalanced with Carol Sparlin serving as judge.

Speak-easy patrons do the Charleston . . . and the speak-easy looks vaguely familiar.

Gay Fisher and Kris Sharpe are among those greatly enjoying the Spinsters' Spree.

Jim Nelson was the Girls' Club Man of the Year for 1965. Jim and the four other finalists, Terry Gates, Tom Kreamer, Ron Shirk, and John Strief, were nominated by all the girls in Roosevelt, and the Girls' Club Board selected the Man of the Year. The finalists were introduced in an assembly at which Jim was crowned by Girls' Club president Jeanne Altman.

An orientation assembly, "big sister" guides, and a Newcomers Tea welcomed sophomore girls to Roosevelt in the fall. By volunteering their services at the Children's Convalescent Home and the Home for Sightless Women, members of Girls' Club contributed to the welfare of the community. To help promote pep, the "school spirit" committee was formed to plan pep assemblies and make tags for "blue-and-white days." Every girl at Roosevelt is automatically a member of the club, which has a cabinet composed of the board and a representative from each homeroom.

Boys Club Promotes School Unity

The BOYS' CLUB had one of its most successful and active years this year. Headed by President Jay Haeberle, the club sponsored many successful fund-raising and spirit-raising projects. Other officers were Jim Duncan, vice-president; Ron Shirk, secretary; and Don Patty, treasurer.

One of the innovations of this year's club was the inception of weekly meetings for homeroom representatives.

The club's projects included selling megaphones for the Riders' Club, arranging for the band for the prom, sponsoring ping pong and chess tournaments, and helping to pay for a new diving board.

"The unity symbols are coming!" This was the battle cry of the club's salesmen promoting the blue-and-white pins reading "Go Riders." The pins raised spirit and money at the same time. The boys sold a total of 1,500 unity symbols.

Another of the club's projects was the promotion of pep at athletic events. This was carried out through the use of boy cheerleaders and an organized boys' cheering section.

In honor of Roosevelt's state basketball championship, the club purchased a 5-foot by 7-foot photograph of the team for the east wall of the gym.

In the way of general service, the club was also responsible for ushers for assemblies and monitors for football games.

The Boys' Club was sponsored by Don Blackman, boys' advisor.

Five MAJORETTES, headed by Connie Sayre, performed intricate baton routines during football half-time activities and spring parades. They also worked closely with the marching band and Riderettes.

The BOYS' CHEERLEADERS gave new life to an old, dormant Roosevelt tradition by making this the first year since 1958 that the boys' pep section has had its own cheerleaders. The cheerleaders, selected by the Boys' Club Activity Council, introduced several new cheers to the students and helped create much school spirit.

MAJORETTES. Connie Sayre, Sue Evertson, Katy Payne, Kathy Hush, Roxanne Stremming.

Pep Groups Spur

Hours of behind-the-scenes toil helped the 12 GIRL CHEERLEADERS present and lead a large, effective variety of cheers at pep assemblies and games. Working with the boys' cheerleaders as well as the girls' pep club, the cheerleaders gave Roosevelt its finest united game spirit. The girls were chosen by a board of teachers after much instruction and practice. Robin Luthey captained the group, sponsored by Eula Cole.

Teams to Victory

With cowgirl outfits and pom-pom routines, the RIDERETTES performed at Veishea, the Drake Relays, and the Armed Forces Day parade, in addition to adding color to half-time spectaculars and pep assemblies. Last fall a clinic was held to familiarize the girls with the group's routines. Head Riderette Mary Hatch was assisted by Pam McGinnis, and June Knight, assisted by Ruth Smith, served as secretary. The Riderettes were sponsored by Robert Bagley.

Roosevelt's PEP CLUB has always been functional and uniform. However, this year, because of the largest enrollment ever, co-chairmen Jan Miller and Wendy Engman formed the new Pep Club Board to improve efficiency. The board, composed of representatives from every home-room, sold membership cards, took roll, and served as a contact between the general membership and the officers. Over 200 Blue Cadets, none of whom missed more than one game all season, were divided into two separate groups for football and basketball. Wearing blue blazers with the Pep Club emblem, these senior girls punched cards, supervised seating, and formed an arch for the team at games. The Pep Club was instrumental in Roosevelt's successful football and basketball seasons.

GIRLS' LEADERS, chosen on the basis of their athletic skill and knowledge, performed many services this year in addition to their traditional roles as gym assistants. Among these services were projects to raise money for the Des Moines Children's Zoo. Fall president was Jan Lutjen, and Leanne Miller took over in the spring.

BOYS' SWIMMING LEADERS aided Clark Munger in his boys' swimming classes. Coach Munger selected the boys on the basis of their leadership abilities as well as knowledge of water safety and sports. The Leaders acted as lifeguards and gave special attention to beginners.

Help, Lead, Present Entertainment

The SHARKS CLUB is composed of girls who specialize in synchronized swimming in addition to helping teachers in girls' swimming classes. Climaxing the club's activities was the annual fall pageant, which was the result of months of preparation. "Showboat" was this year's theme, depicting a delightful showboat excursion down the "Mighty Miss." Mississippi riverboat patrons "never had it so good" as the girls entertained with a combination of beauty and gracefulness.

The soloist was Jean Jerrel, and all members participated in a variety of colorful numbers.

Fall officers were Jean Mountain, president; Barb Twedt, vice-president; Wendy Engman, secretary; and Linda Williams, treasurer. Their spring successors were Barb Tressler, Jean Jerrel, Candy Scott, and Pam Nason. The club was sponsored by Rhea Bagdonas.

Carolyn Peters, many chorus members were named to the all-state chorus. A substantial part of the success of "My Fair Lady" was due to the hard work of Concert Chorus members. In addition to filling major roles, members also provided an excellent background chorus and even learned to dance for a number of scenes.

The GIRLS' GLEE CLUB mixed fine singing voices with good looks to provide enjoyment wherever they entertained. Directed by Carolyn Peters, the girls added to the success of a number of concerts in which they appeared. Their navy blue skirts and white blouses and their fine talent identified them as true Roosevelt students.

Led by Avi Soifer, the members saw movies and listened to directors, playwrights, and drama teachers. Other officers were Tim Joy, Vicki Russell, Sandee Broadfoot, and Lyn-ette Remme.

Fall Play Is a Dramatic Triumph

"I guess you're wondering why I called this meeting . . ."

With or without monkeyshines, the show must proceed, and Roosevelt's fall production of "Inherit the Wind" by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee went on without the services of a stage-frightened primate. However, many humans (including crews as well as cast) worked hard to make the play a success. Billed as "Darwinism versus the Bible," the drama was found to be "deeply religious" by members of the audience. The controversial dramatization was directed by Mr. Roger Anderson.

A schoolteacher pays the price of teaching a controversial subject as he is led off to jail.

The famous Drummond (Darrow)—Brady (Bryan) courtroom clash is vividly portrayed by Jim Harlow and Dick Epstein.

Costumes, make-up and sets were instrumental in "My Fair Lady" success as evidenced in the Ascot scene.

Connie Smith as a beautiful lady and Bob Benton and Jim Harlow as two "confirmed old bachelors" delighted enthusiastic audiences.

A typical street scene in merrie Olde England—who said the English were calm, sedate individuals?

With literally hundreds of people helping to make it a smash hit, "My Fair Lady" was acclaimed as one of the, if not the, greatest musicals ever produced on the Roosevelt stage. Two sellout crowds witnessed the magic of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" brilliantly set to music by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe and produced by the music and drama departments. The outstanding technical, dramatic, and musical performance brought thunderous applause and a standing ovation both nights of its run.

SCRIBBLERS' CLUB, Roosevelt's creative writing club, carried on in the tradition of Milton, Shakespeare, and Faulkner, in its meetings this year. The purpose of the club, to improve the writing of its members, was promoted through writing exercises, discussions, and guest speakers. Members of the club submitted at least one original essay, story, or poem each semester. Then a critical discussion of his work gave the writer ideas about how to improve his writing. Presidents Bob Druker and John Gordon led the group in its activities. Scribblers' Club, although it concentrates on composition, is different from any English class in that the members are free to write about anything that they please. English teachers serving as sponsors were Marian Ehlers and Marilyn Morganstein.

A newly-organized club at Roosevelt, the HAM RADIO CLUB, boasted an ever-growing membership and an amazing knowledge of electronics and radio theory. Unlicensed members were tutored by the more advanced members so that they, too, could obtain their novice licenses. Headed by Ken Mitchum, the "Hams" made arrangements and sought funds so that they could begin broadcasting during the next year. This would enable Roosevelt to contact other high schools throughout the world. A spring fund-raising project was planned.

DEBATE CLUB, another new club at Roosevelt, had an active first year. Most of the club's time was spent constructing a firm basis for future achievements. Debaters engaged in two practice debates against Valley and two against North. For the first time in years, Roosevelt entered a team in the Dowling Debate Meet. The club was sponsored by David Grosland first semester and by Marian Ehlers second.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA were kept busy with many of the tasks which confront their adult counterparts. Duties included typing, filing, and test grading. The "Hubbell Helpers" program enabled senior club members to learn about elementary teaching while assisting teachers at Hubbell School. Sponsors were Ethel Cain, B. A. Walker, and Clyde Anderson.

The KEY CLUB supplied Slinker School with badly needed audio-visual equipment acquired through various fund-raising projects. Club members also rang bells for the Salvation Army and aided the Kiwanis Club with its Pancake Festival. Many of the boys served as ushers at school functions. The club is headed by Art Wittmack, president, and is sponsored by Thomas Scott.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION CLUB OF AMERICA, Roosevelt chapter, held parties, conventions and assemblies as part of this year's program. Giving Roosevelt a new bookstore was one of the club's projects. Club meetings were held once a week during DE class, since distributive education is a course and a club. DE students take either three or four subjects and work outside school in the afternoon. Pam Minard was the DECA president this year. Dean Aschim was the DECA sponsor and teacher.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB gave approximately 100 Roosevelt students a chance to hear Roosevelt's foreign students—both those visiting and those who had been abroad—relate their experiences and an opportunity to learn about other lands. Understanding of foreign countries, peoples, foods, and customs were just a few of the benefits received by club members. One club project was to buy flags representing the countries of each of Roosevelt's foreign exchange students. Jim Harlow was president of the club, which was sponsored by William Husson.

SECRETARIAL CLUB served to extend knowledge of the business world to its members. Shorthand 2 was a membership requirement. Sponsored by Connie Feist, typing and notehand teacher, the club gave its members valuable experience in office procedures and business practices. Officers of the club were Nancy Walker, president; Linda Cleeton, vice-president; Linda Beal, secretary; Maymie Pirtle, treasurer; and Sandy Borrer, historian.

The aim of the HOMEMAKING CLUB was to create and develop more interest in the area of home economics. Highlighting the year were speakers on such subjects as shoe make-up, hair styling, and floral decorations. This year the club had the highest membership in its history. Accomplishments of the club, headed by president Joan Nagel, included revision of the club's constitution. Josephine Baumgartner, home economics teacher, sponsored the club.

In Special Interest Organizations

The HEALTH CAREERS CLUB, sponsored by Bridget Sweet, Roosevelt nurse, took advantage of films, speakers, and field trips to demonstrate to its members the various characteristics of the nursing profession. Girls gained experience in nursing at Blank Memorial Hospital. The officers of the club were Pam Hancock, president; Sheryl Andrew, first vice-president; Joan Stephens, second vice-president; Cheri Miller, secretary; and Joyce Stephens, treasurer.

FUTURE PHYSICIANS' CLUB, sponsored by Jack Koch, biology teacher, added variety to its meetings with movies and several visits from doctors in the Des Moines area. Twelve club members worked as assistant orderlies at Iowa Methodist Hospital, gaining much experience in hospital procedure and routines. Members worked up to eight hours per week apiece. Barry Frank was president of the club.

An all-city horse show was planned by the club, under the sponsorship of Keith Carlson. Officers were Bob Wessels, Rita Holmes, Linda Brown, and Margaret Allen.

The national folk music boom reached Roosevelt this year with full force, and a FOLK MUSIC CLUB was formed. Members enjoyed improving their playing technique, listening to each other, and singing together. The year's major project was a school-wide hootenanny to help raise funds for the International Committee. The club was sponsored by Everett Craft.

With Opportunities for Expression

The purpose of the MATH-SCIENCE CLUB this year was to supplement classroom activities for increased understanding and appreciation of math and science. Headed by president Kevin Binns, the club toured Woodward Mental Hospital, the John Deere plant, Iowa Power and Light, Pella's fossil beds, and Diamond Laboratories. At most meetings speakers were heard or experiments were conducted by members. The club, sponsored by Thomas Scott, sent representatives to various science fairs throughout the state.

Members of the AUDIO-VISUAL CREW gave up their study halls and often "came early and stayed late" in order to give students and teachers the benefit of mechanized teaching equipment.

The members of CAMERA CLUB provided pictures for the annual and newspaper. This service entailed being present at athletic events and all other important school activities. Members of the club took the pictures and, in many cases, processed them themselves.

Exchanges Introduce New Worlds

Roosevelt was privileged to number seven foreign guests among its student body this year. The students represented diverse backgrounds and six different countries. Ann Eklund and Gunnel Lindestrom from Sweden, Eva Ehmann from Austria, Hennie Schouten from the Netherlands, and Hans Bosse from West Germany all came under the auspices of the Youth for Understanding program. Ingrid Parsons came to Roosevelt from Southern Rhodesia on the A.F.S. program. Eleazar Fontes, a Mexican, was not on a specific program, but stayed in Des Moines with relatives.

The foreign students found themselves swept up in the affairs of Roosevelt, and soon began the process of becoming "Americanized." However, in the eyes of Americans, they retained many of their charmingly different characteristics, which made them interesting to know and to talk to.

The visitors were kept busy with numerous speaking engagements for schools, clubs, and civic groups as well as a full school load. Roosevelt's guests were made more comfortable by the International Committee, International Club, and members of the faculty and student body as well as by their host families. As a group, the students visited Iowa farms and industries, model UN sessions, and foreign student weekends and took part in an all-school assembly and the Senior Frolics.

The seven students represented an important "natural resource" for improved international relations, and students who became friendly with them found the experience valuable personally and, in a broader sense, an important step toward understanding.

Six students from each Des Moines high school formed the All-City Student Council, which was organized to improve relations among the city's youth. Teen Town at the Iowa State Fair, a city-wide dance, and a council jamboree were examples of the council's success. The most important achievement of the council this year was its youth employment program. This program provided valuable assistance to hundreds of students in finding summer jobs.

State Basketball Title Requires

Kreamer hits for two against Keokuk in the semi-finals. No, the Roosevelt cheering section will not be seated.

Sore throats, hands, and feet are ignored during a thrilling game—and contribute to a thrilling victory.

After gaining a 16-2 regular season record and another city series crown, the Riders captured a long-awaited state championship to end a season filled with little but success.

The state championship was Roosevelt's first since 1932 and Coach Al Comito's first state crown. The city series title was Coach Comito's thirteenth in 17 years at Roosevelt.

The team also compiled many individual honors. Tom Kreamer was named to the Des Moines Register's all-state first team, and Tom Schulze was named to the fourth team. Roger Lovejoy, Don Sears, Ron Shirk, and Bob Peterson received honor roll distinction. Kreamer and Schulze also were named to the Tribune's all-city first team, and Shirk was on the second team. Lovejoy, Sears, and Peterson received honorable mention. The Iowa Daily Press Association named Kreamer to its first all-state team, Schulze to its fourth team, and Shirk to its fifth team.

All together now—

Efforts of Coach, Team, Students

WE'RE NUMBER ONE . . .

The team tied a tournament record with its first-round 89-point output against Storm Lake, in a game which contained the most points ever scored by two teams in the tournament (155). With their amazing 83-51 victory over St. Mary's in the finals, the Riders set records for the most points scored in a championship game (83) and the most points scored in the tournament (240).

A large dose of pep assemblies, pep rallies, and "school spirit" helped push the team to and through the tournament. After winning the championship, they were honored with a 500-car parade and a day-long victory assembly.

The state basketball championship did strange things to Roosevelt. In addition to disrupting study for a time, it created a feeling of unity and pride which is unimaginable to anyone who has not actually experienced it.

After a slow start the Roosevelt football team gained momentum and put together a highly successful season. The Riders opened the season with a 7-7 tie against Valley and then lost to Tech, 13-0. That was the only game of the season in which the tough Roosevelt defense allowed its opponent more than one goal. After the Tech game the team ran off six consecutive victories, including a 33-0 romp over Lincoln, a 27-6 win over Newton, and a 7-0 homecoming victory over East. This marked the second straight year that the Riders have knocked off a higher rated East team. During this final stretch Roosevelt gave up only 13 points while scoring 101.

The Roosevelt team had many distinguished players in its ranks. Junior Larry Ely was an all-state back and senior Craig Miller an all-state guard of the Iowa High School Coaches' Association. Miller was also named the most valuable player on the Roosevelt squad and awarded the Vernon C. Weidmaier Award for the most valuable lineman on the team.

The sophomore team, coached by Bob Anderson, compiled a 4-2-1 season record.

Individuals Spark Grapppler Effort

John Shaffer
Head Coach

Don Korocho
Assistant Coach

In a season plagued by mishaps and injuries, Wrestling Coach John Shaffer's team featured many fine individual efforts. At the Chariton Invitational Don Gillette received a gold medal and Corky Crandell and Don Gillespie took third place in their divisions. The city meet found three Riders winning first place awards: Alan Schakel, Corky Crandell, and Larry Lancelotti. Finishing off the year, the state meet provided Roosevelt another chance to display its wrestling prowess. Five Riders advanced through the sectional meet into district contests: Roger Vanden Branden, Don Gillespie, Corky Crandell, Larry Lancelotti, and Alan Schakel. Gillespie was the only one to make it to the state.

Charles Greenwood
Assistant Coach

Continuing its winning tradition under Coach Clark Munger, the Roosevelt swimming team had a very successful season. The tankers easily took the city championship and finished the season with only one loss. The defeat was to Cedar Rapids Washington, which was later to become the state championship team. Following a long-established Roosevelt custom, the Riders gained the district championship. The team went on to place third in the state meet.

Netmen Serve Punishment to Foes

Roosevelt tennis teams again smashed their way to victories in the city tennis tournaments. The boys' and girls' teams captured both crowns in the singles and doubles competition.

Six returning lettermen helped account for the boys' success. They were Brian Brindley, Bill Cobb, Terry Gates, Barney Greenhill, Tim Kent, and Rick Schultz.

State champion Sheila Pearl led a fine senior group, which included Cindy Burns, Marcia Hudson, Linda Irving, Rita Kagin, and Judy Newlin.

Coaches were Rhea Bagdonas and Izac Emrich.

Clark Munger
Head Coach

Although hampered by a slow start due to bad weather, Roosevelt's boy golfers, city champs since 1947, continued their winning ways. Coach Clark Munger named senior Stan McCormack as squad leader, with juniors Roger Lovejoy, Nick Neumann, Bill Warner, and sophomore Brad Schuchat as valuable help. The boys again played well in the state tournament at Iowa City.

The long-hitting girl golfers, city champions for many years in a row, tackled the 1965 season with a veteran team headed by seniors Melinda Kaser, Jan Lutjen, Wendy Engman, and Cynde Johnson. Mary Allender, Debby Hiersteiner, and Barbara Lambrecht, juniors, aided the cause as the girls again placed high in the state tournament.

Charles Greenwood
Head Coach

The Roosevelt cross-country team again had a successful season, this year under the leadership of Coach Charles Greenwood. Their 57 points placed them fourth in the state meet. Led by first-place finisher Gordon Hoffert, the Riders came in second in the city cross-country run with 15 points.

Roosevelt fall trackmen placed high in other invitational meets, including a first-place finish in the Grinnell Invitational Meet.

Track Includes Diverse Talent

Led by co-captains Terry Bowes and Jim Baugus, Roosevelt established itself as a leading power in Des Moines track this year. Only North was able to challenge the Roosevelt track team, and the Riders bested them in the Ames invitational and the Marshalltown relays.

Highlight of the early season was Terry Bowes' record shattering 13' 8½" vault at the Drake Relays, a new Iowa Interscholastic mark. Jim Baugus, another star for the Riders, won two gold medals in the Valley relays and brought Roosevelt a first place in the Ames invitational in both the high and low hurdles. Gordon Hoffert, junior, won the Marshalltown relays with a 4:28.4 mile run and placed fourth in the Drake Relays with a 4:27.5. John Scott, senior, challenged Vane Snorf's Roosevelt record of 22' 6" set in 1926 as he soared 21' 1" in the broad jump at the Ames invitational.

The outstanding relay effort this year was turned in by a group of quarter milers who made up one of the best mile relay teams in the state. Tom Stevens, Don Gillespie, Brian Nichols, and Bob Knudson, with Jim Franquemont filling in as needed, had a 3:24.4 at Ames for their best early time. They won a fifth in the Drake relays, first in the Valley relays, and second in both the Ames and Marshalltown meets.

Individual efforts were combined to bring the track team many honors. The cindermen won a first place in the Marshalltown relays, a second position in the Ames invitational, and a third birth in the Valley relays.

Jerry Ford
Sophomore Coach

Ron Adcock took over the job of coaching the varsity baseball team from Al Comito this year and put together a fine team. Working with a young squad composed of one sophomore, 15 juniors, and only 9 seniors, Coach Adcock produced a team that won three of its first four games, and, despite a tournament loss to Dowling, was one of the strongest in central Iowa.

Finale

An end must come to all good things—even to being a Roosevelt senior. The center of three years of student existence will next fall be just a passing glimpse from Polk Boulevard of a weathered brick building. The friendships that meant so much in 1965 will be faint memories, to be dredged up at some still unplanned class reunion.

But school, like life itself, knows no real ending. New voices will sing the old songs. New leaders will shout the old yells. The same old patterns of studying and living and loving will be worked out by eager new classes in their own special way, just as did the class of 1965.

And Roosevelt, by its own special kind of chemistry, will go on adding something to each class—something that ever after will make each member look up proudly and say, "Why, yes, I was graduated from Roosevelt!"

Congratulations!

You've successfully achieved another goal. You're ready to begin reaching for future successes. But . . . how do you measure success? Not with a caliper or a yardstick or a stopwatch . . . not by the acre or the ounce or the cubic foot. Success is intangible . . . it is the sum of your personal goals and aspirations, sorted into positions of relative importance.

Whatever you establish as your criteria of success, you will need to exercise self discipline. Ambition alone is not enough . . . even coupled with intelligence and talent. Self discipline is essential to direct your energies and abilities into productive channels . . . to provide you with initiative and perserverance. Develop this quality . . . you will enjoy a more rewarding life, a more successful life.

"Ambition is just the desire to succeed. The world is full of ambitious failures—all desire and no discipline. Self discipline is perhaps the most important quality an intelligent person can develop in order to reach his goals."

William A. Hewitt, Chairman, Deere & Company.

. . . is an organization that is proud to serve the students of a fine school like Roosevelt. Everyone who takes an interest in the school is urged to join alumni, parents and friends.

Yearbook Is Big Business

This year's annual staff had big ideas—the most ever, color, a two-tone cover—and to Business Manager Dick Epstein and his staff went the job of raising money to pay the resulting bills.

Circulation Manager Angie King organized a drive that sold almost 1600 books to eager students. Sam Cook raffled off a frigid turkey for publicity. Sheryl Pidgeon sold ads, and more ads, and more ads, until sponsor and business manager alike forced a halt. With Cathy Schweiker's help, the ad accounts were collected.

The result of this hectic year of activity? To Business Sponsor Charles Greenwood's consternation, the bills were paid, the books balanced, and the 1965 annual was in the black!

Pat Neal, top ad salesman, and Laurie Gross, top ad captain, enjoy a free dinner at the Bavarian Haus as a reward for their efforts.

Like pencils,

Drake students are not all alike. Some come from big cities, others from small towns. Some are from the East Coast, others from California. Some are from as near as Des Moines, others from as far away as Hong Kong. Some are rich, others of relatively modest means. Some want to become teachers, others lawyers, still others businessmen. Some are Republicans, others are Democrats. Drake students differ in many respects, but they share a common bond: the desire for an education. They are preparing themselves for careers while gaining insight into the problems confronting today's world. We would be pleased to answer your questions about our study programs.

Editor's Note

The copy for the 1964-1965 Roundup was set in 6, 8, 9, and 14 point century with the headlines set in 36 point bodoni bold.

Cover and letterpress printing was done by Wallace-Homestead Company and the Capital City Printing Plate Company prepared the engravings.

The poetry on the division pages was written by Sandee Broadfoot.

Special thanks is given to Robert McCloskey and Richard Somerville for their help and suggestions when it was most needed.
